

Special State Protection Service workers planted the territory

18 April 2016

Special State Protection Service workers planted various species of plants on the surrounding area of the Memorial of the Heroes who died during the Russian-Georgian war in 2008. The head of the SSPS, Anzor Chubinidze and the acting governor of Shida Kartli Ioseb Okromelidze took part in the planting process of the territory. This year the oath taking ceremony of the recruitment of Special State Protection Service was held at the Shindisi Memorial, where the head of the Service stated to the media that they would plant the memorial and its surrounding area in order to honor the soldiers who died heroically in Shindisi and would pay special attention to this place.
